The Edinburgh Lectures have inspired nearly every other early New Thought writer. Judge Thomas Troward delivered these lectures in Scotland in 1904, and they have served as the touchstone for metaphysical thinking to this day. Troward's mind is logical, brilliant, and extremely precise. This class is excellent for the serious student of New Thought.	Dr. Jim Turrell

It has been said that it arose out of the fear of primitive man, face to face with nature. But fear has nothing in common with reverence and love. It does not unite fact and ideas, visible and invisible, man and God. As long as humanity did nothing but tremble before nature, humanity was not yet human. We became human when we seized the link which connected us with past and future, with something superior and beneficent, and when we worshipped that mysterious unknown. – Edward Shure The Great Initiates	Dr. Jim Turrell
From Whence We Came	Tuesdays, March 17 – May 19, 2021 Zoom Online: 7:00 – 9:15 pm 8-Week Class Tuition for full credit: $295 Audit: $175 Must attend 8 out of the 10 classes Includes Class Materials	If you like history, then From Whence We Come is a course you will find most interesting. You won't have to memorize dates or place names. The history is one of ideas which converged in American culture to become what we now know as Religious Science and the larger New Thought movement. These ideas originally arose before recorded history, but were rediscovered in the 19th century by some notable people whose works are read and discussed in this course. These great luminaries of New Thought were the first to frame them in words and make them accessible to the general public. Released in 2012.	Dr. Jim Turrell
