Here is our prayer for the week. I invite you to contemplate it daily:

"There is a real magic in enthusiasm. It spells the difference between mediocrity and accomplishment." ~Norman Vincent Peale

I fully recognize that the One Mind is all there is. This is truth at my core, and I embrace it with certainty. I expect all good things to come to me joyfully and abundantly.

Connecting with Source is a daily activity. I am Source. I am all that Source is. I am forever unfolding in a greater expression of this Divine presence with a consciousness that focuses only on good.

My thoughts are filled with joy, and I choose how to direct this energy out into the world. I get the privilege of living my life exactly as I want to, knowing that it is entirely up to me to embrace activities that support my desire for a full, adventurous life. Everything that comes my way is an opportunity for growth. I dismiss any doubt or fear which stands in my way. Stretching outside of my comfort zone gives me time to learn and enrich my reality. Confident in my abilities, I move forward with power.

Grateful for this knowing, grateful for all the blessings that endure, I say thank you Divine Source. Thank you for continually supporting my desires and needs.

Released in Law, my word is now perfect, whole, and complete. All I have claimed here is done.

And So It Is!
